DESCRIPTION

A survey of foundational and highly influential texts in Analytic Philosophy. Emphasis will be on four sub-topics, namely Language and Philosophical Logic, Epistemology, Metaphysics (including Metaethics) and Metaphilosophy. A focal point, regardless of sub-topic, will be the tools and techniques highlighted in these texts.

REQUIRED TEXTS

L. Wittgenstein (1933-34), Blue and Brown Books

OBJECTIVES

The twin objectives are honing of philosophical skills and enriching students' familiarity with some "touchstone" material in 20th Century Analytic philosophy. In terms of skills, the emphasis will be on: professional-level philosophical writing; close reading of notoriously challenging texts; methodological reflection; and respectful but incisive philosophical dialogue.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Six "Briefing Notes": 50%

- On the day they are discussed in class, students will submit 2-3 page (i.e., 750-1000 words) "reader responses" to selected writings, consisting of an outline of the central argument, along with the student's comments and questions. (This is to be sharply contrasted with an outline of the paper, section-by-section.)
- Each Briefing Note is worth 10%, and all are obligatory. However, the lowest grade will be dropped

Short Term Paper: 35%

- Students will write a brief paper, the length and style of a conference paper (i.e., about 4000 words) on one of the topics addressed in the class.
Class Participation: 15%
